OSSO & BOTTONE

OssO & Bottone is a collection consisting of modules of rectangular tiles sculpted with edge cuts that create large voids, revealing patterns through the joints. Intended explicitly for outdoor environments, but perfectly working also indoors. Designed by Ronan Bouroullec, it represents a significant innovation in ceramic usage and versatility.

OSSO

The shape of Osso is obtained through perimeter cuts that thin the central part, giving the single element a configuration similar to that of a bone. In the juxtaposition of the individual modules, a play of shapes within shapes is obtained, in which voids and solids dialogue with each other in an alternation of complementary perceptions.

Osso is available in two sizes: Osso L, measuring 7.5 x 23.1 cm, and Osso S, measuring 3 x 27.5 cm, both 10 mm thick each.

BOTTONE

The shape of Bottone is obtained by means of circular perimeter cuts which, in the juxtaposition of two pieces with a 4 mm joint, become perfect circles reminiscent of buttons. In the juxtaposition of the individual modules, a play of shapes within shapes is obtained, in which voids and solids dialogue with each other in an alternation of complementary perceptions.

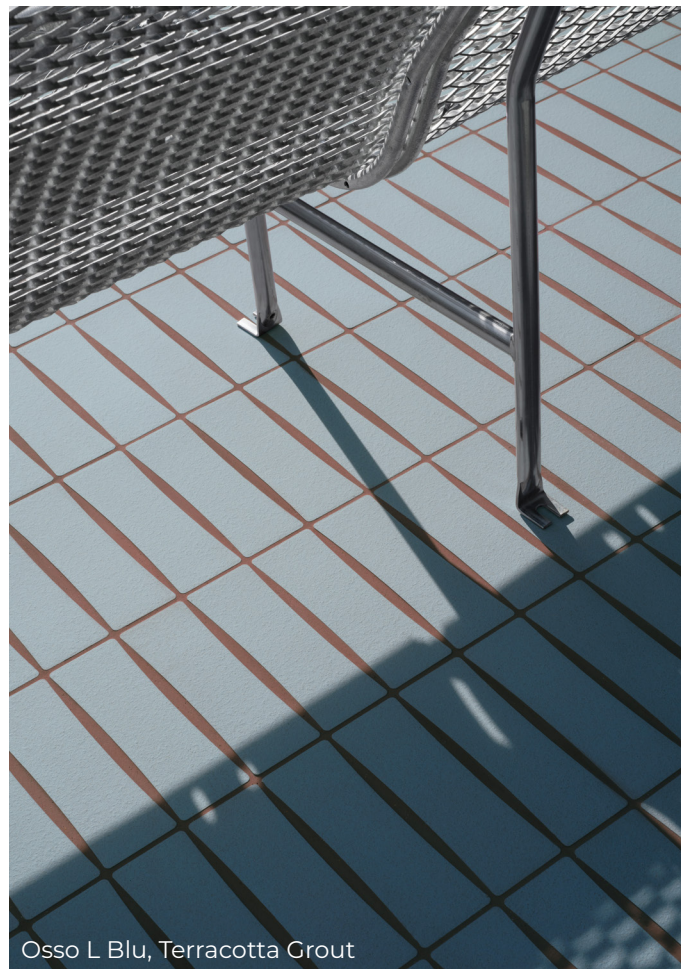

Bottone is available in two sizes:
Bottone L, measuring 7.5 x 32.1 cm,
and Bottone S, measuring 3 x 27.5 cm,
both 10 mm thick each.

OssO & Bottone are available in a palette of five colours: Sabbia (sand), Grigio (gray), Rosso (red), Blu (blue), and Verde (green).

These are not solid colours but hues obtained from a delicate mix of coloured earth, which, working in synergy with the ceramic texture, enhances its extremely material and natural appearance.
